PRICE TWO CENTS.

PRESIDENT'S TOUR BEGINS.

THE SPECIAL TRAIN LEAVES WASHING-TON CITY ON TIME.

It Stops at Charlottesville, Where the President Addresses the Students of the University of Virginia, Founded by Jefferson-A Great Crowd Welcomes Him to Lynchburg, the Home of Senator Daniel.

WYTHEVILLE, Va., April 29. - The President, Mrs. McKinley and their party left Washington promptly on schedule time at 10:30 o'clock this morning in the private train over the Southern Railway which will carry them to the Pacific Coast on a seven weeks' trip. The guests, including this speech members of the Cabinet and their wives and friends, the railroad men in charge of the trip and the newspaper men who accompanied the party were at the station promptly and no hitch in the programme on which Secretary Cortelyou had spent many hours of hard work in the last few months was occasioned at the start. No fairer morning could have been desired, and the President, Mrs. McKinley and all were in the most enthusiastic spirits in anticipation of the trip. Those who accompanied the President seemed to feel the greatest pleasure in his apparent enjoyment. The station and neighboring streets were crowded with Washingtonians and visitors.

The President's train arrived in Washington at noon yesterday. It was elaborately decorated to-day with flowers The locomotive carried the President's flag, and from Washington through Virginia, where the train passed to-day, the stations were crowded with people to see the President. The programme as to stops and general schedule had been fully mapped out. There was to be a stop of ten minutes at Lynchburg, Senator Daniel's home, in honor of the Senator.

At 11 o'clock to-night the President had passed over 377 miles of his tour, and had vividly recalled some of the most notable scenes and incidents of his earlier career. From the windows of his private car he could see more than one of the historic battlefields of the Civil War, and the train passed within a short distance of the old homes of Madison and Jefferson, and very near the present residence of the daughter of President Tyler. The large towns and the countryside turned out to greet him.

He made several speeches, congratulating the people upon the era of national prosperity and expansion, and felicitating the gitizens of Virginia on the effacement of sectional distrust. The weather was of the finest and the valleys of the Roanoke and New rivers and the fields of Manassas and Charlottesville were bathed in warm sunshine all day. The Virginians gave the President a hospitable welcome. Even at Alexandria, only seven miles from Washington, where the special train stopped for five minutes, there was a large turning out of the population. A short stop was made at Manassas, but there was no speechmaking At Charlottesville, the home of Jefferson and the seat of the University of Virginia, which he founded, the reception was particularly cordial. The President heard the university yell from the throats of several hundred collegians before his train stopped, and the young men applauded Mr. McKinley's speech with the same hearty method. A part of his brief address was directed to these students. The President people of Charlottesville and the cheers of the young men of the University of Virginia [Applause.] Your institution is linked with great names and great deeds, and has influenced both. [Applause.] What an array of immortal names Virginia holds in her keeping to remind us of lofty patriotism, broad statesmanship and noble achievements! [Applause.] To no other State of the Ameri an Union 1-clongs such history to preserve and cherish and such examples to inspire and emulate. [Geat applause.] May the young men of the State of Virginia prove worthy sons of their noble ancestors and contribute in the future, as they did in the past, to the well-being and honor and glory of the Lepublic. [Great applause.] Let me assure you, young gentlemen, that the present and the future hold rich rewards for good scholarship, high character and for good scholarship, high character and noble endoavor; and the wish which I leave with you is that of these you may have your full share." [Prolonged applause.]

There were loud calls for a speech from Secretary Hay, who stood on the car platform near the President. Mr. Hay responded to the cardwing Postmuster General Smith. by introducing Postmaster-General Smith, who spoke as follows:

"This seems hardly a kindly service to be performed by the latest Secretary of State in the home of the first great Secretary of State in the home of the Irist great Secretary of State of the United States. [Great applause] The present Secretary worth-fly perpetuates the literary fame and the states manifes achievements of the first search for the present Secretary who lived here and plants. great Secretary, who lived here and planned this University of Virginia. [Great applause] I recall that for many years the chief officer in my department of the public's service in the city of Charlotte-ville was a noble woman, the daughter of University of Charlotte, and the wife of a Contest. a Union officer and the wife of a Confederate officer. [Great applause] She was first appointed by Gen. Grant; and when in the early years of the first administration of President McKinley the suggestion was made of a change he answered; 'No; I will remove no one appointed by Gen. Grant who preserves such memories.' Grant who preserves such memories,"

Senator Daniel and several thousand of his fellow townsmen received the Presidential party at Lynchburg with enthu-siasm. Here the President made a happy speech, calling forth peal after peal of laughter from the crowd by his humorous references to the time when he was a Union soldier on the battlefields of Virginia His welcome then was less cordial than it was to-day. There was a circus in Lynchburg this afternoon, but Senator Daniel told the President that the crowd was not at the circus, but at the railroad

"Well, that may be due to natural causes
"Well, that may be due to natural causes replied Mr. McKinley "Usually the people prefer a free show to a fifty-cent show." The President was introduced by Mr. Daniel and spoke from the rear platform of his car. He said:

"I am very giad not only to meet the people of the city of Lynchburg, but to be presented by your distinguished Senator. [Applause.] It is a matter of no public interest, but only one of pure personal recollection, that the first time I ever tried to come to Lynchburg I did not succeed.
[Laughter.] I came here with a number of other gentlemen who sought entrance, but the gates were closed. [Laughter.] We could not open them and you would not. [Laughter.] And so we departed to seek another host, if not more hospitable, less formidable than the one that greeted us here. [Laughter.] It is a happy time for me to come to Lynchburg now—the war over, no exchange of greetings with shot and shell as then, but with the friendly welcome of all the people, which typtfles the respect and regard and good will which the respect and regard and good will which subsists between all sections of our common country." [Great applause.]

BRISTOL, Tenn., April 29—A number of short stops were made this afternoon at which no speeches were made, but where the President shook hands with a few the President shook hands with a few of the people from the platform of his car. There was a large crowd at Culpepper, the home of the Hon. Alfred J. Stofer. At Roanoke, one of the prosperous towns of southern Virginia, the President made this greater.

"My fellow citizens: I am informed, and I do not wonder as it, that your committee which was to extend me a welcome to Roanoke has been lost in this great crowd. But there can be no warmer or more sympathetic welcome than greets me from the hearts of your people. [Great applause.] I congratulate you and I congratulate my self upon the glorious country in which we live, and that once more and forever we are devoted to the same cause and to

we are devoted to the same cause and to the same flag. [Great applause,]
"I congratulate the citizens of this city upon its marvellous growth and progress. Twenty years ago you had less, I am told, than a thousand people in this community. You have more than twenty thousand now, and I think if a census was taken to-day you would have a much greater number than that. [Great applause.] I congratulate you therefore upon your progress as

"We never had so much to do in all our history as we have now. [Applause] We never had so much business at home nor so much abroad. We never made so much, and never sold so much as we sell this year. [Great applause.] We are expanding our markets, our productive capacity has become so great that we are not only able become so great that we are not only able to supply the home market, but we require a foreign market for our surplus, and so we are seeking the open door in the Orient for the products of American cereals and American labor. [Anplause.]

"What we want todo now is to be prudent in our prosperity, save while we can, and be strong if the storm should come. And they do come now and then. Whenever it comes, let us be fortified by the practice of economy while we are all so well em-ployed. [Applause.] We are not only expanding our markets, but we are expanding our territory. [Cries of "good!" The policy of the United States has a way been to keep what it originally started with, and hold all it honorably gets. [Great applause.] We refused to divide our orignal possessions, and we will be the las desert our new possessions." [Long-

The President and party will arrive at Memphis to-morrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock and will remain there over night This is one of the objective points of the tour, and an elaborate programme has been a ranged by the citizens. Both the President and Mrs. McKinley are in the best of health and spirits.

TRIES TO SEE THE PRESIDENT. A Lunatic From Salt Lake Taken to the Police Statton in Washington.

WASHINGTON, April 29. - Harry Finkelstine, well dressed, about 35 years of age. who says his home is in Cleveland, Ohio, carrying letters of recommendation as Harry Stone from several San Francisco sporting men, is under detention by the police, suspected of being insane from statements be made yesterday to officers at the White House in trying to see the President. Finkelstine said he must see the President before he went on his trip, to get him to "take action against the Mormons" of Ogden, Utah, who claims locked him in an insane asylum would come the word that Mrs. Jones the claims locked him in an insane asylum t Provost, Utah, for eighty-three days and ook all his money, $300, for board while here. He made no objection when taken to the police station and is not considered dangerous.

SALT LARE, Utah. April 29.—Harry Finkelstein, alias Harry T Stone, the lunatic who tried to see President McKinley on Sunday, is a Salt Lake man and his mother lives here now. YOUNG WOMEN ON A CENTURY WALK. Miles in Four Days.

GREENWICH, Conn., April 29.—With knap-sacks on their backs two score of fair young at Rock Ridge, some from New York, are now on a hundred-mile walking trip, admiring flowers by the roadside, cooking meals in the woods by campfires and sleeping at night in farmhouses wherever they can find

They started on Saturday afternoon, piloted y Miss Catherine Runtz Rees the head of the school. In their knapsacks each carried a knife, fork, tin plate, cup and an extra pair of stout shoes. They were short walking skirts, sweaters, felt hats and walking boots. Saturday night Round Hill was reached and Sunday Bedford was the stopping point. To-day New Canaan was reached and tomorrow the girls will start on their return trip. They expect to cover the hundred miles in four days. Their route is through the country the villages being shunned because notoriety is not desired. The century walk is a new fad here.

Those in the Rosemary century walk are Misses C. Ruutz Rees, G. Norton, E. Loines I Hewitt, M Sawyer, I Coxe, E Young, G. Greeley, L. Griffin, G. Paxton, M. White, R. Cley, H. Foster, L. Morris, M. McCutcheon, J. Hewitt, M. Easton, M. Bell, B. Hamilton, R. Hazard, E. Wrathbone, M. Gardner, S. Ham-

ANOTHER BEAUMONT GUSHER. The Kelly Well Comes In, Showing the Oil Field

Dallas, Tex. April 29. The Kelly well at Beaumont came in this evening. This is the most important strike since the original Lucas Gusher. The craze will grow now, as the well proves the field to be much wider

The Kelley well is the furthest removed from the Lucas and other gushers, in a northwesterly course, toward the Sour Lake field, on which such large hopes have been. In other words, the richest section of the Beaumont field seems to be northwesterly instead of field seems to be northwesterly instead of northeaserly from Beaumont. The preponderance of expert opinion has been indersed by the bringing in of the Kelley well, as most of the expert trend has inclined to the Sour Lake locality, and most of the expert investment has been made in that direction. The fever in Dallas is higher to-night than at any previous time, as most of the Dallas money is in land in the Sour Lake district. The Kelley well is one of the Dewey Heywood properties, and the former Chicago comic opera singer, who a few years ago entertained Dallas audiences on the stage, is being heartly congratulated on his good fortune.

ably Got Away With Most of This Money -Mortgage Forgeries Aggregate $75.000.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., April 29 .- Additional developments relating to the wholesale forgeries committed by ex-Mayor Hadley Jones of Little Falls are of a most startling nature. His scheme to bunco banks by putting up forged certificates of stock of the National Herkimer County Bank of this city as collateral for loans is developing into one of the greatest bank swindling games that has been unearthed for some time. From the evidence now in it is certain that when the final roll call of bank victims is made up it will be found that his winnings from bank forgeries alone will be over $150,000. Later developments also tend to show that he got away with the larger part of the money.

Jones had been engaged in forging mortgages for several months. He enjoyed a high standing as a lawyer and had a large practice. Poor widows and orphans are numbered among his victims and new victims are reporting almost hourly. Every one in the county had confidence in Jones, and among his clients were many women having small savings and they would ask him to invest their money in real estate mortgages. Jones would draw a mortgaze covering some residential property, forge a fictitious name to the instrument record it and then file it away in his safe for the client. When the interest was due on the mortgage Jones would pay it promptly.

His scheme for swindling the banks was one recently put in practice. The indications are that the proceeds from the mortgage forgeries had been squandered in interest account necessary to keep him from exposure on account of the crooked realty transactions was growing to an enormous figure. Then he worked out the bank scheme for the purpose of gathering up a large fund with which to leave the ountry.

He was able to work the bank scheme by reason of the fact that he had in his possession valid certificates of stock of the National Herkimer County Bank owned by his wife. Mrs. Jones owned ninety-six shares of the bank stock, made out in series of twenty-six shares and seventy shares. With this stock certificate as a copy Jones had a new stock book made on the representation that it was for the bank. Being a reputable attorney nothing strange was thought of this transaction. He secured the bank seal in the same way. Then he secured a letter from the bank officers to the effect that his wife, Mrs. Emily Jones, was the owner of ninety-six shares of the bank stock in series of twenty-six and seventy shares, and the market value of the stock was about 167. Jones would always issue the forged stock in series of twenty-six and seventy shares, made out in the name of his wife, the same as the valid shares. This forged stock was put up as collateral for commercial paper made by Jones. If word was sent by wire to the National Herkimer if word held the same number on apparently the most gilt-edge security. on apparently the most gar-edge security.

He secured his first loan from the banks of Ashtabula, Ohio. His loan at this bank was $9,000. He secured $9,000 from a Providence, R. I. bank, $9,000 from the Troy banks, $9,000 from the Long Island City banks, $5,000 from Newburgh banks, City banks, $5,000 from Newburgh banks, and a loan from Tarrytown banks. Twelve missing certificates of stock remain to be reported upon. The valid certificates of stock were put up with the local banks as collateral. Twenty-six shares of the stock are held at the Little Falls National Bank and seventy shares are held by the bank in the village of St. Johnsville, N. Y. His mortgage forgeties will aggregate in the village of St. Johnsville, N. Y.

His mortgage forgeries will aggregate $75,000, but the proceeds derived from this source has been lost in playing the horses and faro in Albany. He had a mania for gambling and gained something of a reputation as a plunger in the White House colony of sports in Albany.
His wife's fortune of $40,000 has also been soundered, but his bank forgeries are squandered, but his bank forgeries are of recent occurrence, and it is generally believed here that this fund was built up for the purpose of leaving the country.

Notwithstanding his faults, Jones and Notwithstanding his faults, Jones and his young wife were very devoted to each other. While he forged her name to bank certificates without the least hesitation and squandered her fortune, it is not believed that she knew anything about his crookedness or the fact that her entire fortune was swept away until she was summoned to the Grand Hotel in New York or April 9, on a telegram to the effect that on April 9 on a telegram to the effect that her husband was very sick,

This telegram was a deception, but or her arrival the husband told her the story of his downfall, which resulted in her dermination to stay with him and follow

Nothing has been learned of the where-abouts of the fugitives, but private in-formation was received in Little Falls to-day to the effect that Jones was at the Aqueduct track on the afternoon of the 19th, and the further information that he was a heavy winner on Gold Lack, a 10 to 1

SOUTH ORANGE SKEETS MUST GO. Village Improvement Society to Begin a War of Extermination.

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., April 29. - The South Orange Village Improvement Society lin, A. Ladow, L. Burpee, E. Bell, F. Bruce, has decided to rid that community of mos quitoes. The following have been appointed mosquito exterminating committee: Eu

a mosquito exterminating committee: Eugene V. Connett, Sr., Robert S. Sinclair and Spencer Miller.

It is the intention of the society to advocate the abandenment of rain barrels, the screening of water tanks in houses and the placing of a thin layer of crude oil in cessions and in pools of stagnant water where it is not practicable to drain them off. The village Board of Health asserts that mosquitoes are carriers of malaria and that they breed in stagnant water.

A free lecture on mosquitoes will be delivered in the village shortly by Prof. L. O. Howard of the Department of Agriculture, Washington. Prof. Howard is of the opinion that mosquitoes do not fly over half a mile although they are blown over two miles sometimes. He believes that the Oranges can be rid of mosquitoes.

Lost $73, All He Had-Says He Has Known for Some Time That His Wife Is Insane.

MARION, Ind., April 29 .- While buying tickets for himself, his sister and brotherin-law to the circus to-day David Nation, the husband of CarrieNation of hatchet fame, was robbed of $73, all the money he had excepting 35 cents.

While paying for the tickets a crook picked his pocket and secured, besides the $73, a pair of cuff buttons that he prized very highly, they being a present from his grandfather who served in the Indian War. John Miles, a brother-in-law of Mr.

Nation, saw a man leave the crowd hurriedly a moment before Mr. Nation missed his money, and the police were notified, but the thief has not been captured. When seen at the home of his sister tonight, Mr. Nation, when asked concerning the report of bis wife's insanity, said that he was not surprised that she had become violent, as he had known for some time that she was insane. He did not seem to be as much concerned about his wife as he did the loss of the $73, which he said he recently received from the sale of a horse and buggy.

When asked about returning to his wife he said he had only the 35 cents and that he could not return if he wished, and that he would remain in Marion until Wednesday and then would go to Sycamore, Ind., to visit a brother and would there receive his pension money which will be forwarded from Topeka, Kan.

He also said he never approved of the conduct of his wife and was not in a hurry to return to her.

TRIED TO BLOW UP THE STORE. Terrific Explosion When Levy's Package Was Thrown Into the Street.

A man, who said he was Jacob Levy of 199 East Seventy-sixth street, entered Lubitz's shoe store at 85 Manhattan avenue Greenpoint, last night, carrying an oblong gambling and wildcat investments. His pasteboard box, which he carefully placed on a chair beside him while trying on some shoes. Purchasing a pair of shoes, the man asked Lubitz to tie up the old pair and keep them for him until the following day. He also requested Lubitz to take care of the box, at the same time warning him to the very careful of it. Lubitz refused, but the man was persistent, and finally placed the box in Lubitz's arms. He made a break for the door. Lubitz ran forward to call him back when he noticed smoke issuing from the box. Frightened almost out of his wits, be rushed to the door and threw the parcel into the street. The instant it hit the roadway a terrific explosion occurred. It alarmed the neighborhood for blocks around and people came rushing in alarm to the

ZOLA'S LYRIC DRAMA PRODUCED. It Is Unconventional and Is Exciting Considerable Discussion

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN Paris, April 204 - More than average interest was attached to the production at the Opéra Comique to-night of the lyric drama, "L'Ouragan," the music of which was furnished by Alfred Bruneau, and the libretto by M. Zola. Both are remarkably uncon-ventional. The book is unlike anything hitherto written. It is prose, but the ideas are full of poetry. The story is imaginative o the last degree. All the characters are symbolical They move in a sort of No-Man's Land called the "He de Goel" The elay is exciting considerable discussion.

MR. NATION ROBBED AT A CIRCUS. PALMA FOR PRESIDENT!

CUBAN DELEGATES SUGGESTED THE MATTER TO HIM YESTERDAY.

He and They Decline to Tell What His Answer Was-Regarded as a Candidate Upon Whom the Conflicting Factions Would Unite -Gen. Portnendo on Caba's Aspirations.

The Cuban delegates who arrived here on Sunday from Washington, on the way to Havana, to report the result of their conferences there with President McKinley and Secretary Root, spent a busy day yesterday sightseeing and renewing some old acquaintances. After visiting some friends in the business district, three of them, Gen. Capote, President of the convention: Gen. Portuondo and Gen. Betancourt went over to Governors Island by invitation and lunched with Gen. Brooke whom they had met in Cuba, where he was Governor General.

They were shown over the island, and had a band concert given in their honor. From Governors Island they returned to the Fifth Avenue Hotel, where they were met by Gen. T. Estrada Palma, who had come from his home at Central Valley, N. Y., to have a conference with them. This conference lasted nearly two hours Nearly all the matters which brought the delegates to the United States were gone over and Gen. Palma's views ascertained There is reason to believe that the subject the possibility of Gen. Palma's selection was discussed.

A friend of the delegates told a reporter A friend of the delegates told a reporter of The Sun yesterday before the conference that it was intended to sound Gen. Palma on this as there is a large element in Cuba who regard him as a candidate upon whom all could unite. Gen. Palma's services here as head of the Cuban Junta services here as head of the Cuban Junta have resulted in great admiration for him throughout the island which it was said some of the delegates shared. Gen. Pa'ma when asked about this laughed but would

of the question of a fitting candidate for the Presidency was brought up and that say nothing.

Gen. Portuondo, who was Secretary of State and Vice-President of Cuba during the war, said last evening that he ex-pected the convention would finish its labors in two weeks at the most and a resoiution would be passed expressing its atti-tude in respect to the Platt amendment.

When the American nation recognized the Cubans as an independent govern-ment," said he, "Cuba will be ready to give to the Americans every thing they want not inconsistent with their ideas of national honor. Ninety-nine per cent. of the Cubans want absolute independence, and by that we mean sovereignty and the right to con-duct our own affairs abroad as well as at home. Our preferences, of course, will always be for America. We will never help another nation against America, but we want to be independent in the conduct of our affairs.

"Personally I am sure now that this country will recognize Cuba's independence and will receive its representative at Washington and announce it to the world. If that occurred after the Platt deserted and the only one who was injured amendment had been accepted the question is would the other nations recognize Cuba's independence in view of that amendment. There are doubts in our minds on this point. However, I believe it will all be settled satisfactorily and that the fall will see Cuba's first national election." Last night the delegates went to the After the shock of the explosion Lubitz looked around for Levy. He saw the man running down the avenue.

He started in pursuit, and very soon there was a big crowd of people joining the delegates went to the operation of the will be presented by him to the Stock Exchange in the afternoon. They will sail for Havana to-morrow. in the afternoon. They will sail dren in ice cream prepared by the mother.

DR. HILLIS'S PLAN TO FILL CHURCHES | nearly crazed when her husband spoke to to Give All a Chance to Rest.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 29. The Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, pastor of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., spoke to-night before the New Haven Congregational Club or "The New Problem of the Church and the Ministry."

He called attention to the fact that the church services are very slimly attended nowadays, but that the time is coming when there will be a revulsion of feeling River near his home, hooked a trophy and the churches will be once more filled. He favored a national half holiday on baturday as a means to bring back the people to the Church The people would have a chance to rest up on the half holiday. It is so in England, where the church services are largely attended.

Nowadays in this country the young man wakes up on Sunday morning after a hard week's work and wants a day of rest. In the morning he jumps on his wheel and spends the forenoon in the country. The afternoon he spends in reading. The old men who have been working hard all the week spend all Sunday reading and resting up for the coming week. A Saturday half holiday, such as they have in England, would give the young and old a chance to rest and then they would go to church on Sunday.

ANOTHER REYNAL MARRIAGE Hastened by Illness, This Time the Illness of

Mrs. Jules Reynal. Mrs. Jules Reynal is very ill at her home, 263 Madison avenue. An operation, performed recently for supposed intestinal trouble by Dr. George A. Dixon, disclosed that the patient was suffering from a malignant cancerous growth.

Mrs. Reynal is the mother of Eugene S. Reynal, who was married in March last to Miss Adelaide Fitzgerald, the daughter of General and Mrs. Louis Fitzgerald, when they were both quarantined and ill of scarlet fever at Gedney Farm, Mr. Howard Willets's country home at White Plains. That marriage was performed in haste at the request of Miss Fitzgerald, when

Mr. Reynal was supposed to be dying. There was no time to summon the rela tives. Mr. Reynal got well. Mr. Reynal's mother was greatly disappointed at not being able to attend his marriage. It was her wish to witness the marriage of her other son, Nathaniel Reynal, whose engagement to Miss Rutter has been reported. Arrangements were made yesterday, so it is said, to have this marriage take place immediately at Mrs. Jules Reynal's house in Madison avenue. The house was brilliantly lighted early last evening and there were several guests, but no announcement of a marriage was made.

ONE SCREW BRINGS NEW YORK IN. Count Colacicchi Brings Cardinal Martinelli's Red Hat.

The American liner New York which sailed from Southampton and Cherbourg on April 20, and was spoken on Wednesday last 1,700 knots east of Sandy Hook by the Cunarder Campania, proceeding slowly under her starboard engine, was reported east of Fire Island at 10:15 o'clock last night. The Campania reported at Queenstown on Friday that the New York had signalled that her port shaft was broken, but that she needed no assistance. The Minnehaha of the Atlantic Transport Line, in yesterday from London, passed the New York on Thursday night about 1,200 knots east of this port. She was making between thirteen and fourteen knots. She may get up to Quarantine about 4 o'clock this morning. Count Stanislao Colacicchi cameriere de gabinetto, member of the Pope's Noble Guard, and bearer of the scarlet berretta for Cardinal Martinelli, the Apostolic Delegate to the United States, is a passenger aboard the New York. The Rev. Dr. Frederic Z. Rooker, secretary to the Cardinal, will escort Count Colacicchi to Baltimore. The ceremony of bestowing the berretta will take place at the Cathedral in Baltimore on May 8. POOLROOM RAIDERS IN A BITTER CLASH WITH THE POLICE.

Man Who Telephoned Warning to Capt. Moyni han's Precinct That Justice Jerome and His Men Were Coming Vanishes in Police Station-Moynihan Denies That He Was Ever Brought There, but Prisoner or a Substitute is Produced Mysteriously Two Hours After Jastice Jerome West Away.

Justice Jerome of the Court of Special Sessions accompanied by seven men representing the City Vigilance League and the Society for the Suppression of Vice, swooped down upon a poolroom yesterday afternoon in a building adjoining the Knickerbocker Hotel, at Twentieth street and Eleventh avenue, which is considered one of the toughest sections of the city. After an exciting time in which the raiders and the gamblers drew pistols and threatened to kill each other half a dozen men were placed under arrest and taken to the West Iwentieth street police station. There the olice permitted one of the prisoners to get away, but brought him up from the station house cellar two hours later when Justice Jerome threatened to issue warrants for the arrest of Police Capt. Moyeihan and two of his policemen. Whether or not the police substituted another man for the prisoner who e-caped will not be known until to-day.

The raid on this poolroom was planned week ago, after an agent of the City Vigilance League had collected evidence against the place. On April 19 Robert S. McLellan secured more evidence. In his report he stated that the poolroom was on the second floor of the building adjoining the Knickerbooker Hotel, and was reached through doorways leading from the barroom of the hotel. On McLellan's affidavit Justice Jerome issued warrants, John Doe, No. 1, No. 2. No. 3. and No. 4. The raiding party assembled at the Criminal Courts Building at s o'clock. Aside from Justice Jerome the party consisted of Frank Moss, Clerk William Fuller, of the Special Sessions, Agents Hammond, Dillon and Baker of the Society for the Suppression of Vice. Agent McLellan representing the City Vigilance League, and Detective Sergeants Cuff and Rynders. the later being detailed to the District Atorney's office. They climbed into hacks waiting on the White street side of the building and drove uptown. Justice Jerome had been informed that a former member of the city Fire Department was acting as apy for the police of the West Twentieth street station, and had on a previous occasion acted as a tipster between the police and the gambling houses in the precinct. The Justice had been told that tips were sent out over the telephone from an engine house near the Court House, and received for the police in an engine house opposite the police station on West Twentieth street. Agents of the Society for the Suppression of Vice had reported that the former fireman was the man who had tipped the gamblers when the raid was about to be made a couple of weeks ago at Fourteenth street and Eighth avenue. To head this tipster off early yesterday morning Justice Jerome sent two men to act as lookouts near the police station. While the agonts were there they saw the ex-fireman run to the police station and then over to the poolroom in Eleventh avenue.

The raiding party took a curcuitous route and drove through Twelfth avenue to Twentieth street, getting there in time to see the tipster running toward the poolroom at Eleventh avenue. They reached the place about by the others, an through the crowded barroom to the rear of the place and opened the door leading to the poolroom stairway Fuller remained in the barroom. Detective Sergeants Cuff and Rynders with Frank Moss and the other members of the party followed Justice Jerome to the poolroom Several men tried to bar their way, but they got inside and shut and boited the door About a hundred men were in the place One man was shouting "Come on with your bets! The horses are at the post. You've only got a minute more!" A man with a roll of banknotes in his hand was paying off the winners in the previous race. The raiders made a rush toward him.
